

Darmsden

Parish Code: E04012277

Area Summary

Darmsden is a small hamlet and civil parish in Mid Suffolk that is less than a mile south of Needham Market.

Darmsden only became a stand-alone parish in 2013 following a successful campaign to establish its own meeting and therefore break away from its neighbour Barking.

The parish is said to be the second smallest in the county with 17 households and 36 adult residents, only 'beaten' by Athelington.

The parish retains its parish church which faced redundancy in the 1970s only to be bought by a local 'friends of' group. The church still holds occasional services.

Much of the hamlet sits on a private estate but it is still accessible by road.
