Area Summary

Kersey is a village and civil parish in Babergh that sits 10 miles east of Sudbury and 13 miles west of Ipswich. The village of Hadleigh is just 3 miles to the east.

The village is well known for its picturesque quality which is reflected by the high concentration of older and listed buildings in the parish. In the centre of the village is the 'Splash' (or ford) which stretches across the main street, typically no deeper than a large puddle.

The area is famous for sharing its name with a common medieval cloth that was mentioned numerous times in Shakespeare's work. The village also rose to prominence in more recent times for featuring as the fictional home of meerkats in a high profile insurance advert.

There are a number of community assets in Kersey. The village hall sits just away from the village centre along 'The Green'. To the south of the village and at the top of a hill you will find the parish church, primary school and playing field.

There are a number of businesses in the area with a 14th century pub and the local mill which has been converted for event hire and business use.
